Date October 9th, 2010
Time: 8am- 4pm
Location: 2233 West Allegheny Avenue, 3rd Floor
Philadelphia, PA 19132-1420

Purpose: To promote and encourage the practice of wellness and self appreciation to empower the lives of those persons in the Education, Social Work, and the Healthcare professions

Objective: To re-energize our bodies, re-focus our minds, rejuvenate our spirits and collaborate together as serving professionals; as a way to strengthen and empower the consumers we serve as well as ourselves.

Never Journey Alone, LLC and Creative Connections Educational Consulting Group, LLC will facilitate “Great Possibilities through Collaboration” for our fellow Serving Professionals – Educators, Social Workers, and Healthcare providers. This one day event will focus on well being, healthy living, proactive treatment, and education as a means to effectively impact the overall wellness of ourselves as well as those we provide education, services and healthcare to.

It is the hope that by providing events such as this, will allow educators, social workers and healthcare providers opportunities to collaborate, communicate, and understand the role each professional plays in the life of our consumers to serve them better. Most importantly, it is our hope that, we as serving professionals, will remember to take the needed time putting into practice positive approaches to tend to our own health and wellness to prevent rapid burnout.

Collaborations:

Best practices in Community programs point to local governments, businesses, health care organizations, school, religious organizations, and other neighborhood stakeholders that can be turned into a team, working together to improve the health of residents in their communities. The collaborative goals include jump-starting community efforts with new strategies and initiatives - effective health partnerships -creating healthier communities.
